Seaweed pops
and white hilltops—that’s what winter’s made of.

Harvest crops and school-bus stops—that’s what fall is made of.
How to Make Your Book

1. Cut on the dotted lines.
2. Fold the pages on the solid lines.
3. Put the pages together in order with the covers on the outside.
4. Open your book to the middle, flip it over, and staple the pages together.

one thing comes and steadies us—the bright and shining moon.

Rain drip-drops

As the seasons go a-spinning, night to night and noon to noon, and bunny hops—that's what spring is made of.
